

Persuasive Letter to Ms Bhambra: Why School Uniforms Should be Kept

Dear Ms Bhambra,

I hope this letter finds you well. I am writing to express my thoughts on the matter of school uniforms and why I believe they should be kept at Lyon Park. I believe that school uniforms play an important role in creating a sense of belonging, promoting equality, and being cost-effective.

Firstly, school uniforms encourage a sense of belonging. When every child wears the same thing, this creates an environment where all are equal. This creates a feeling of unity, pride, and respect for one another. By identifying with their school community, children learn to value their education and develop a deeper sense of loyalty towards their peers and teachers.

Secondly, school uniforms provide a cost-effective solution for parents and guardians. In today's society, where fashion changes frequently, the pressure to wear expensive clothing can create financial strain for families. However, with school uniforms, this is not the case. A uniform is a one-time investment that can be used throughout the year, saving parents from the constant need to purchase new outfits.

Lastly, one of the significant advantages of school uniforms is that they get rid of the judgment that often arises from clothing choices. Imagine if a child didn't have the coolest pair of trainers, other children might say something unkind to them. By wearing the same uniform, an inclusive and positive learning environment is created where children can concentrate on their studies without the distractions of fashion.

Many thanks
